

Audrius Pranckevicius
Policy Officer
European Commission, DG FISMA

Audrius Pranckevicius is a policy officer in Retail Financial Services Unit of DG FISMA in the European Commission. He works on policy development in the area of instant payments since 2021. Prior to his current role, Audrius has worked for fourteen years on policy development in the areas of bank prudential regulation and bank recovery and resolution. Before joining the European Commission in 2005, he worked in financial analysis for blue chip companies in Canada. His academic background is in economics and finance, with degrees from Vytautas Magnus University and Brandeis University.